Paul Moberg Dies In Highway Mishap

Six Sent To Hospital When Two Cars Collide On Grassland Street

BOYLE — A head-on collision between two cars in front of the pool hall in Grassland at 1:30 a.m. on Sunday claimed the life of 49-year-old Paul Moberg and his 13-year-old son of this district.

In critical condition in an Edmonton hospital is Mrs. Paul Moberg. Others seriously hurt are Mrs. Moberg's father Mr. Haffner and her brother-in-law Mr. Stevenson.

Two Fedun girls in the other car which was parked in front of the pool hall, received a broken leg and a broken arm. It is not known how badly the driver was hurt. Another passenger was not seriously injured.

The Mobergs were returning home from Lac la Biche after taking their 13-year-old son out of hospital. He had been in hospital one week, recovering from an accidental shooting in which the edge of his shoulder was torn off.

The Moberg car was reported to be travelling at a terrific rate of speed and completely on the wrong side of the road.

In an attempt to avoid an accident the other driver began to back his vehicle up but was unable to get out of the way quickly enough.

One son of the Mobergs lives at Dawson Creek; one daughter, Mrs. G. Marrinier lives in Edmonton and two small children, who were with friends, were not involved in the accident.

Both cars were completely demolished.

Unfaithful Wives Get Noses Cut Off

A custom in India dating back to ancient times provides plenty of opportunity for a plastic surgeon.

Brigadier Harry W. Williams, a Salvation Army medical missionary, said in Edmonton that Indian husbands often cut off their wives noses for infidelity. Enemies also will often cut off each others noses.

Brigadier Williams is on a tour of Canada and the United States to speak at public meetings and medical schools.

He described western missionaries as the West's best goodwill agents and said Canadians could help the people or India by supporting Christian missionaries in that country.

The football season opened with the town team playing the Boyle Bone Crushers. After the dust had cleared, the boys were on the short end of a 12 to 0 score. This was only a preview for the following week our Clippers travelled to Lac la Biche to meet the mighty Lac la Biche team.

The game was progressing fine when suddenly a few bad calls and miss-used words set off angry tempers which later caused the game to be stopped after only three quarters of play and the score left at 20 to 6 in their favor.

The students of Grassland are sorry that this incident ever happened and believe those at Lac la Biche do also.

THE Homemaker

By BERTHA M. McCUTCHEON

The Consumer section of the Canada Department of Agriculture has an information bulletin on Cereals. It states that as a food, cereals have held top rating since ancient times because they are so easily grown and stored and have high food value.

B. McCutcheon

In Canada wheat and oats are the two main cereal grains produced for food. Wheat is made into flour and breakfast cereals. Flour in turn is used ofr such familiar foods as bread, rolls, muffins, pies, cakes, cookies, macaroni and the like. Oats is used chiefly as a breakfast cereal and as an ingredient in breads, cookies and desserts.

Other cereals grown in Canada for the making of flour and breakfast cereals are barley, rye and buckwheat. Barley is used also for soups. It may be in the form of pot barley, which is the whole grain cereal or pearl barley which is the refined cereal. Although corn is used extensively as a cereal, it is largely imported owing to limited Canadian production.

All grains have similar food value and structure to a kernel of wheat. They consist of the following parts:

Husk or skin — removed in process of milling for human food.

Bran layers — contain considerable amounts of minerals, vitamins and some roughage. Used along with other parts of kernel when making whole grain breakfast cereals and flour.

Endosperm — contains mostly starch with some protein. Used in making all breakfast cereals and flours.

Germ — rich in "B" vitamins. Also contains some Vitamin E and the mineral iron. Used in making whole grain breakfast cereals and flour.

Canada's Food Rules recommend one daily serving of whole grain cereal and at least four slices of bread with butter or fortified margarine.

More about cereals next week.

ARREST THIS LOST-TIME THUG!

They've put the finger on a culprit at your farm . . . a thief who's literally picking your pockets—your tractor.

Proof? What more do you need than this—authoritative tests by impartial engineers at the University of Nebraska proved beyond doubt that during a year's work a tractor can lose as much as 20 per cent of its power. Such power loss means extra hours in the field to do the same work . . . gallons of fuel pouring out the exhaust. And most tragic—farmer-owners were not aware of this power loss.

Your tractor, too, needs a check-over. Perhaps only a tune-up is required. Regardless . . . in our shop, only the necessary work will be done; our skilled mechanics will do the work quickly . . . efficiently . . . and at the lowest possible cost. We're making service dates for these next few weeks; won't you let us add your name to our schedule?

Removal Of Station Agent From Beauvallon Protested

BEAUVALLON — Over 200 people packed the community hall at Beauvallon in the Vermilion constiutnecy on Tuesday afternoon Oct. 25, to attend a sitting of the board of transport commissioners of Canada.

The sitting arose from a request by the Canadian Pacific Railway for permission to remove the station agent from Beauvallon. The company claimed insufficient revenue from that point as the reason, as well as the fact that a highly qualified agent was not being used to the full extent and that he could be used to much better advantage elsewhere.

Representing the board of transport commissioners was District Inspector F. Gillis from Calgary. The CPR was represented by J. Macnabb of Edmonton. John Dudar, reeve of the Eagle. municipality, was chairman. Attending to see that the rights of their constituents were upheld were the federal and provincial members, Major Frank W. Fane, MP of the Vegreville constituency, and Ashley H. Cooper, MLA for the Vermilion provincial constituency.

Mr. Gillis outlined the request which the board of transport commissioners had received from the CPR leading to this meeting. Mr. Macnabb outlined the reasons, giving a strong case, for the CPR in making the request, stating that they had put off asking for the removal of the agent for the past three years. An open question period brought forth many questions and answers.

Cooper spoke strongly on the advisability of continuing the agent at Beauvallon for another trial year. Major Fane stated that he would press the matter further when he returned to Ottawa within three weeks.

Mr. Cooper, in the final plea of the meeting, pointed out that the decision to remove the agent was apparently based on the returns for the three years prior to 1960. These years, stated Mr. Cooper, were recession years for agriculture, due to poor crops and poor prices, climaxed by the almost total crop failure in 1959. As the prosperity of the farmer suffered so suffered the economy of the CPR in the area. With the good crop harvested in 1960 the economy of the area was bound to become more buoyant with resultant benefits to the CPR. He therefore thought that in all fairness the agent should be left at Beauvallon for another year.

The decision of the board of transport commissioners will be announced at a later date.

Following the meeting the Beauvallon board of trade entertained a number of the visitors at a luncheon in the hotel.

Personally, we keep a close eye on that type of man best known as a go-getter. He might get too much, and some of it might belong to us.

Both Major Fane and Ashley

HINTS ON STORING VEGETABLES

Vegetables which are to be stored, even if only temporarily, should be of prime quality Select those free from bruises or disease spots. Do not attempt to store vegetables injured by insects.

Remove the foliage of root crops such at beets, carrots and turnips before storing.

As shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph, carrots which have been cut by digging should not be stored, but used for the table.

Best temperature for storage of root crops, such as carrots, is about 38 degrees. Never let the temperature drop below 32 degrees and always allow for sufficient ventilation.

There are a right way and a wrong way to remove the tops from beets intended for storage. The leaves should be twisted off, not cut, about one inch above the top of the beet, as shown, to prevent bleeding and drying out.

Handle beets carefully, since they bleed profusely if bruised or cut, and are then undesirable for storage or household use.

Thick-skinned root vegetables, such as the rutabaga shown, can be kept fresh all winter if you seal the cut ends to retain moisture. Dig them up before heavy freezes, dip them into melted parafin wax then put them away in storage.

Parafin saved from jelly jars can be put to good advantage this way.

OVER MY GATEPOST

By Anthony J. Wright

WILL THEY DO ANYTHING AFTER ALL THIS TALK? It was automobile week here not long ago. All the bigwigs of the car industry with their public relations advisers were here to tell Dr. Vincent Bladen what ails their business. Bladen, a Toronto economist, has the dreadful task of sorting out millions of words of testimony and reports about the decline of built-in-Canada cars. He then has to advise the government on what it should do to help workers and manufacturers.

Anthony Wright

He also has the unpalatable job of telling the car firms themselves how to put their house in order.

Bladen is the one-man Royal Commission on The Canadian Automotive Industry. Its main problem is the competition of made-in-Europe cars. The figures for 1960 will probably show that 30 percent of new-car-sales were of European models.

Dr. Bladen may recommend any or all of the following palliatives:-

(1) Repeal the 7½ percent excise tax levied on all cars taken over by dealers. This tax is a kind of luxury tax and provides about $56 millions a year for the Treasury.

(2) Encourage firms to make European-style cars here. Two of the biggest importers are Ford and General Motors themselves. If G.M. did not bring in Vauxhall's made at Luton, England, it might sell more compacts. However, it does so because it knows that if Vauxhalls did not come, Canadians would buy more Ford imports, Volkswagens, Renaults etc. G. M. may switch part of its Oshawa plant to the making of Vauxhalls, but this is only a "may."

(3) The Detroit bosses of the so-called Canadian car firms may be attracted by the suggestion that their branches in Canada start making certain models for sale all over the continent. Such models would enter the U.S. duty free. Other cars put together in the U.S. would come here duty free. Everyone would bet cheaper North American type cars in Canada, if he wanted them. Cars, or parts of cars, made in our plants in Oakville, Windsor or Oshawa, Ont., would be sold to 200 million North American consumers, and abroad, instead of being offered only to the 18 million customers in Canada.

Dr. Bladen, a wise man as he showed during the hearings here in one of the basements of the Parliament Buildings, will try to finish his report by early in 1961.

TIME FOR ACTION! Labour Minister Starr, and his advisers, have been telling the cabinet and others for years now that our unemployment troubles are serious, that they would not go away merely because we put our heads in the sand. Now the cabinet believes the Labour Department.

It is time for action!, said a government aide anxious to see the Conservatives hold on to power. This is all the more urgent now that the New Party have taken a federal seat (Peterborough, Ont.) from the Conservatives. The Tories and Liberals are nettled that for want of a better name the party backed by the Canadian Labour Congress and the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation has become known as the New Party. It was clever of the left-wing to let that name cling. Voters are attracted by something that sounds new. To have called it the Socialist Social Democratic or Labour party would have killed it dead, say the political strtegists. But New Party makes it sound as if it actually had something New to offer. Anyway, it did right well at Peterborough, Ont. even if it lost at Niagara Falls, Ont., a town ordinarily kind to romantic dreamers.

Caretaker Sought By Curling Club

With winter approaching, the executive of the Lac la Biche Curling Club held its first meeting of the season with Jack Olstad in the chair and N. Chodan as acting secretary.

Many problems were discussed including that of finances for a new rink. A letter from Stan Powers, former district agriculturist, was read in which Stan told the executive how Tofield is financing their rink. Stan indicated that a large portion of the recreational grant was to be used on this project.

The question of a caretaker was also discussed and it was decided to ask for tenders. Tenders should be submitted to Jack Olstad before November 21st, 1960.

Does Anyone Care?

By Rev. Ramsay Stuart

Rev. Ramsay Stuart

As a schoolboy the two minutes silence on Armistice Day seemed to me one of the most inspiring of experiences. There would be all the ordinary, normal sounds of life, people's voices, the rumble of traffic, the sound of a distant train —and then — the sound of a bugle, and silence. A deathly silence which seemed to last for eternity — and then a voice reading out the names of the fallen.

It seemed to me that during the Silence, the grownups retreated into a world of their own. I could not follow them, but when they came back to me, they were kinder, more gentle, sometimes a big hand would rest momentarily on a small shoulder.

Today, I am one of those who retreat into that other world during the Silence. What voice speaks to me during those two minutes? It's a voice from the past — the voice of memory. It speaks of men who were in love with life. Yet they died. They died alongside me on the beaches of Dunkirk — in the African Desert — in Italy. Others died in places unmarked from Britain to the Burmese jungle, on land and sea and in the air. And why? Because they felt that it was necessary, that something was at stake, something worth giving the most they had.

They hoped that out of the awful holocaust of blood and sweat and tears something finer would come for all mankind. They fought and died in order that the ultimate decencies of life might be preserved. These men and women died for what they believed to be right. If we are not to betray them, then our duty is to live for what we believe to be right — to be as courageous in defending Right and Truth and Honour as they were in dying for it.

So in the Silence — let us heed the voice, for it is the Voice of God. The Voice promises that our memories need not be in vain, so long as we will continue to strive for brotherhood, and love between man and man.

Lillian Annie Wolak Weds Victor Joseph Markowski

SPRUCE VALLEY — On October 20, 1960 at 10:00 a.m. the St. Gabriel's Church of Athabasca was the scene of a lovely wedding ceremony, when Miss Lillian Annie Wolak, eldest daughter of Mrs. Stephania Wolak of Spruce Valley became the bride of Mr. Victor Joseph Markowski, son of Mrs. Kathern Markowski of Athabasca.

Given in marriage by her older brother John Wolak, the bride was radiant in a long white nylon tulle and lace gown, fashioned with a bateau neckline, long lily-point narrow sleeves and a wide full circle skirt. Her short illusion net veil was held in place by a pill-box style headpiece which was covered with seed pearls and crystal beads with a single tear-drop pearl in the centre. Her bouquet was of beautiful red roses.

The bridesmaids Helen Wolak, Kay Markowski and Irene Kochan wore identical three-quarter length gowns fashioned from yellow scalloped nylon lace tier upon tier. Their short white veils were held in place by identical pearl tiaras and each carried bouquets of white carnations. They wore misty white elbow-length nylon gloves.

Janet Brytus, niece of the groom was flower girl. She looked charming in a yellow gown fashioned exactly the same as the bridesmaids' gowns.

Darald Markowski, nephew of the groom was the ring-bearer.

The groom was attended by Eddie Markowski, Steve Moroz and Billy Pacholok.

The bride's mother wore a pastel blue dress and the groom's mother wore a light navy dress. They had corsages of red roses.

A reception was held in the Spruce Valley Hall, which was filled to capacity.

Vases of pink carnations and pink and white roses decorated the bride's table which was centred with a three-tier wedding cake, topped with an ornament of a bride and groom. On each side was a white candle held by spiral candleholders which were completely entwined with tiny red rosettes.

The young couple received many lovely gifts. They will reside in Athabasca where they are both employed.

Out of town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. John Glowacki, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Markowski, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Gillies, Mr. and Mrs. Casey Sagala, Mr. and Mrs. P. Moroz, Mr. and Mrs. P. GREEN ACRES

LEONARD BAUER, District Agriculturist

During the next few weeks I intend to describe and explain some of the services that are available through your local district agricultural office.

With the winter season almost upon us and with outside work nearly completed, we have a chance to look back and assess the year. How successful was it? What were the strong points in the operation? What were the weaknesses? But hindsight in itself is to no avail. We must use it to improve our farm. This is what we mean by farm management, and in order to help you anlyze last year and to help you plan for next year, we have available for your use statistics and information in various enterprises. The data is accumulating little by little, and as time goes by we should have accurate information that will prove a real asset in this respect.

During the past two years, Mr. Jaque, who is now in Grande Prairie, organized a number of groups in the area for the purpose of discussing problems in their farm business. This was done to start with in the form of farm accounting groups. Farm records, however, are in themselves of little use if we use them only for the purpose of looking back. In order to derive any real benefit from them, we must plan ahead. This, I'm sure, would have been Mr. Jaque's next step, and so I feel confident that in continuing on from where he left off, we will be headed in the right direction. Those of you who were in on the accounting courses will be contacted shortly and we will try to get reorganized again within the month. This is a general invitation also to anyone that is interested in this sort of program. We will let you know when and where the meetings will be held.

Within these discussion groups, as I prefer to call them, we will probably first review some of the fundamentals of record keeping. This will then leave our way clear to spend time on crop rotations, livestock programs, balanced farm planning, and any other aspects of farm management that come up out of your own operations. I would suggest that both the husband and wife should attend these courses, since both are very much involved in the farm business, and should both be in on it, and understand major changes and adjustments that may be made.

In addition to these groups, our office will welcome any requests for farm management information and I will be only too glad to discuss with you problems in this and any other field of agriculture.

Next week we will discuss livestock improvement policies that come under the department of agriculture, so until then, here's to better farming.

GRASSLAND — The Grassland Nimble Thimble Club was held at 7:15 p.m. on October 17 at the Grassland School.

The meeting was opened by singing "O Canada." This was followed by the 4-H pledge. The roll call indicated 25 members present, six local leaders, eight officers and one guest, Mrs. McCuthean.

Mrs. McCuthean, the District Home Economists, spoke on having extra activities which would add interest to the meetings and would be quite helpful to the club. Mrs. McCuthean introduced the first year program to the girls while Mrs. Duneie and the second year girls together planned their year's program.

Later, Irene Rybicki thanked Mrs. McCuthean for coming and spending the evening with the club.

The meeting was followed by coffee and lunch.
